

Remembrance Sunday 2018 – Take a special photo!

A joint message from John Boisson, Chairman, Royal British Legion (Norfolk Branch) and Matthew Burrell, County Commissioner, Norfolk Scouts

Special Remembrance Sunday

Remembrance Sunday this year falls on Sunday 11 November, exactly one hundred years from the armistice taking effect and bringing an end to the First World War.

Reaching out

Earlier this year the Royal British Legion and Norfolk Scouts became affiliated, this means that both organisation will support each other to achieve our aims and objectives, many of which are similar or the same.

Remembrance Sunday is a time when many members of the Legion and Scouting will come together in their communities, we'd like to create a legacy from this year's Remembrance.

We're encouraging Scout Groups and Local Legions to take the opportunity to introduce themselves to each other before or after the Service and take a very special photograph.

You could swap contact details to organise a further catch up at part of a Scout programme.

Please take a photograph of local members of the Legion and Scouting together with the Legion and Scouting Standards.

Email your photo to hq@norfolkscouts.org.uk for it to be included in a special time capsule that will be held in the Norfolk Scouts Archive, the photos could also appear online.

The photos will be shared via the Royal British Legion with veterans who cannot make a community remembrance service, to show them that the next generation are carrying on the message of remembrance and peace.

Feel free to share your photos on the day using Social Media, please tag both organisations to your photo.
